Senate election tomorrow

BY STACY DOKE

Students will head to the polls tomorrow to cast their votes for student body president/vice president, treasurer and recorder. Student Senate elections will be held outside the Cafeteria during lunch and supper.

All students, including seniors, can vote. Those elected will begin their duties this May Term and will continue through the 1994-95 Fall Term.

Running mates for president/vice president are Beth Onsrud, '94, with Heather McClintock, '95, and Todd Hornaday, '94, with Koby Kreinbring, '94.

"Heather and I hope the election goes in our favor," Onsrud said. "We're interested in serving the student body and insuring that the student concerns are heard by the administration."

"Strengthening Wartburg by dealing with issues that will affect the college in the future is one of our goals," McClintock said.

"We see ourselves as leaders who will encourage and push for broader and more important issues that concern everyone," Hornaday said. "Currently, the Senate spends a lot of time on issues that do not affect the student body as a whole and are not as important."

Other positions that will be on the ticket are treasurer and recorder. Running for treasurer are Kevin Schmitz, '94, and Chad Jennings, '95.

"A good treasurer must possess self discipline, good interpersonal, management, and communication skills. I possess those qualities," Schmitz said.

Jennings said if elected, he would guarantee doing his best for the position.

Candidates for recorder include Larissa Schultz, '95, and Amy Johannsen, '95.

"If elected, I feel this will be a good experience for myself and the student body," Schultz said. "I want to be active in the decisions made for the student body."

Johannsen was unavailable for comment.

Wartburg receives Internet service

BY ANDREA FLATER

Welcome to Internet at Wartburg College. Internet is an interconnection of many computer networks. Wartburg is a member of MIDnet.

"Wartburg is connected to Internet through our microVAX so a VAX account is needed to use Internet tools," Chris Schmidt, professor of computer science and director of academic computing, said.

Access to the VAX is possible from direct-connect microcomputers and terminals. Several microcomputers in WBC 117 and BHS 208 are identified as VAX terminals. To access the VAX from home or other locations, a modem is needed.

To obtain a VAX account or to get Internet privileges on an existing VAX account, contact the Computer Center Luther Hall 202. To find out about up coming workshops contact Schmidt at 8395.

Dr. William H. Foege, former director of the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, GA, was presented with the Graven Award Tuesday for outstanding Christian lay work. (l-r.) Dr. Stanley Graven, Helen T. Graven, Foege and President Robert Vogel.

Smallpox victor speaks on role of history in life

The man who is considered to be a key figure in the eradication of smallpox around the world demonstrated Tuesday in his Graven Award lecture at Wartburg College that he is a person who is involved and concerned about the "global village."

Dr. William H. Foege, the former director of the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., and now a Fellow for Health Policy at The Carter Center of Emory University in Atlanta, said that students have a calling to be global citizens.

"You are the history of the future and one of the essentials of civilization," Foege said.

The fourth recipient of the Judge Henry N. and Helen T. Graven Award for outstanding Christian lay work, Foege said it is imperative that we study history and understand that everything we know has a past.

One of the themes of history, he said, is to measure civilization, which can be determined by how people treat each other.

"History asks the church, 'Where are you in times of social injustice?' It has been said that if we know how to relieve torment and don't do it, we become the tormentors," he said. "We ask, 'Do we have to do all those things to overcome injustice?' The answer is no, unless you want the world to look better."

Foege said that schools like Wartburg have a peculiar role in history, and he outlined what he would expect for his children from such a school.

"It should develop in them a curiosity that would make them life-time students. It should make them believe in a cause-and-effect world, not a fatalistic world. I would want them to learn how to make a living at what they want to do but more importantly for them to learn from history to make a life. I would want them to seek interdependence as hard as they seek self-reliance. And I would want them to understand their responsibility to the future and to the rest of the world."

Foege said that it is overwhelming to realize that today a student can learn in 15 minutes the ideas that it took the lifetimes of others to develop.

Foege, who was born in Decorah and lived in Eldorado before moving to Washington state where his father was a parish pastor, received The Graven Award, which is funded by the Judge Henry N. and Helen T. Graven Endowment for The Ministry of the Laity: The Church in the World and goes to a lay person "whose life is nurtured and guided by a strong sense of Christian calling and who is making a significant contribution to community, church and society.

The Gravens were lay people from Greene, Iowa, who made significant contributions to the church. The late Henry N. Graven became a Senior Federal Judge, and Helen, who lives in Minneapolis, served Wartburg for 14 years as a member of its Board of Regents.

Tran: 'Americans are international students'

BY NAOMI KAMIJO

"Culture Day is made not only for international students, but for everyone on campus." said Robert Tran,'93, International Club social chair.

Culture Day is a tradition at Wartburg and this year will be Sunday, March 21, at 5 p.m. in the Cafeteria. The theme is "We are the World." It will consist of skits, shows from many countries such as Malaysian dance and a variety of food from many countries.

"I want American students to get involved. It's a great opportunity to learn about other cultures and to teach American culture," Tran said. "Many American students mistake Culture Day only for international students, but Americans are international students too."

Tickets are available at the International Office, Information Desk and outside the Cafeteria starting Monday, March 15. Ticket price is $3 and includes food and drink.

International Club is looking for helpers for Culture Day. Interested students should contact Tran at 7404.

Ahrens: take the initiative to gain equality

BY NICOLE JOHANNINGMEIER

Mary Ann Ahrens, president of the Iowa American Association of University Women, encouraged those at the "Women Making A Difference" conference at Wartburg Saturday to take risks to develop personal and professional growth.

"Taking risks is the only way to develop your 'psychological muscle' and boost your self-confidence," she said. "We have to realize that we continue to grow, change and develop throughout our lives, so because we fail at one time does not mean we will again."

She offered tips of how to take risks including estimating the probability of a worst possible outcome, having a well thought-out plan and visualizing success.

"You should nudge your boundaries of risk a little at a time," she offered. She also recommended using her "chunk theory" which breaks down tasks into manageable pieces.

Ahrens also discussed the importance of women in history. She said women have been taken for granted despite the fact that they established schools, hospitals and the right to vote. Many women have also worked for equality.

"Women have carved out many paths, but the road to equality is not complete," she said.

She added that much of inequality boils down to economics. Girls are denied equal opportunities in education which deny them equal opportunities in careers. This not only harms women, but also the nation as more scientists will be needed in the future to maintain our global economic position.

She said women need to take the initiative to strive for equality to counter outdated socialized roles, counter women's second class status as citizens, counter unequal representation in decision-making bodies and to counter gender bias.

"Gender bias is at the core of the other three problems," she said.

Ahrens was keynote speaker at the conference. She owns Ahrens & Affiliates in Waverly.

Following her address, participants attended workshops which addressed women's concerns in education, work and health. The sessions were led by Wartburg professors and professionals from Waverly.

Approximately 50 women attended the eighth annual conference. They ranged in ages from college students to retirees and many learned that they had much more in common than they thought.

Faculty, staff make chapel donations

BY ANDREA FLATER

While frigid weather of the last several weeks has stopped construction of the Chapel, fund raising efforts continue to secure commitments for the project.

Dr. Rick Torgerson, vice president for development, reports that through the efforts of 28 faculty and staff members, the college has secured over $85,000 in cash and commitments to the Chapel.

"This is a tremendous response on the part of over 125 individuals and families in the Wartburg community who are helping make this dream a reality. Without the assistance of the 28 volunteers we would not have been able to bring the opportunity to be a part of the Chapel to the campus family. The volunteers played an important role," said Torgerson.

Over $1,940,000 in cash and pledges has been received for the project which will cost approximately $2,280,000. Torgerson said many gift giving opportunities remain to honor family and loved ones.

Wartburg family starts young

BY ADAM JOHNSON

Have you heard about the Wartburg Squires?

No, they're not a new campus band with a cheesy name.

Actually you might be a Squire yourself and not even know it.

According to Jan Striepe, director of parent and alumni relations, a Wartburg Squire is anyone who is born to Wartburg alumni parents.

When alumni have a baby, they should inform the Wartburg College Alumni Office of the birth and have the baby's name put in their files.

The Alumni Office will send the child a Wartburg College T-shirt and a certificate officially welcoming them into "The Order of Wartburg Squires."

The baby and the parents also get their name put into Wartburg Magazine telling people that the child was born.

"There are three reasons why we do this," said Striepe, "first, to help let the alumni know we are interested in them, second, to get the baby's name on file, and lastly, to tell the Wartburg story."

"Hopefully," said Striepe, "in about 17 years we can put their name on the admissions list."

According to Striepe, the Alumni Office sends out approximately 200-250 shirts a year.

The Alumni Office needs to know within a year of the birth because the shirt comes only in a toddler size two.

'Greater Tuna': laughable look at bigotry, closed minds

THE WHEELIS-STRUVIE MID-DAY REPORT—Thurston Wheelis (Michael Stadtmueller, '96) and Arlis Struvie (Betsy Kurtt, '96) read the news on Radio Station OKKK.

BY JENNIFER AMOS

"Greater Tuna" can be described by the often heard phrase "politically correct."

Actually, I was joking. If anything, the satire that "Greater Tuna" uses in portraying the conservative, right-wing community of the fictional Tuna, TX, can somewhat be construed as politically correct.

Although bigotry pervades the small town of Tuna, and the magazine entitled "Intellect" has never been seen in this town, one finds him or herself laughing at the portrayal of this town rather than becoming irate with its prejudices.

Bertha Brumiller played by Kate Varnum is an example of the close-minded ideals that exist in this town. Proud to be on a book-banning committee, Bertha cites her membership in Citizens for Fewer Blacks in Literature among other groups as criteria that allows her to ban books.

Betsy Kurtt did a stupendous job of playing the lisping director of Tuna's Humane Society, Petey Fisk. And Paul Everding, '94, successfully gave a eulogy without saying a thing about the deceased through his character, Rev. Spikes.

One begins to think that Stanley Bumiller, played by Andy Arnold, '93, is the only sane person in this town until we learn that Stanley is responsible for killing the town's judge, dressing him in a woman's bathing suit, and leaving the body to be found by someone else.

Wartburg's production of "Greater Tuna" gave our community a glance at the backwards, bizarre world of Tuna, TX. Even more bizarre and disturbing however, is wondering how close to reality the satire of this play really is.

Former fine arts faculty to exhibit work in gallery

Jack Loeb, who taught art at Wartburg College from 1971 to 1982 and now is teaching art to elementary children in Darmstadt, Germany, will have an exhibition of his work here March 3-18.

It will hang in the Art Gallery of the Fine Arts Center. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. There is no admission charge.

The exhibit includes oil paintings, watercolors, pastels and collages.

During his stay at Wartburg, Loeb was involved in Chrysalis, an alternative study program. The majority of his classes were in art education and the fine arts.

He became arts and crafts director with the U.S. Air Force at Lajes Field in the Azores in 1982 and then two years later became the arts and crafts director for the U.S. Army at Mannhein, Germany. He has been at Darmstadt since 1989.

Loeb is a graduate of the University of Northern Iowa and earned a Master of Arts degree there in 1971. He also taught art and humanities at Chisago City, MN, for a year before returning to graduate school.

Loeb's art work is well-known in the Midwest. He has exhibited at UNI, University of Dubuque, University of Nebraska, Sioux City Art Center, Lutheran Brotherhood in Minneapolis, the Iowa Arts Council, MacNider in Mason City, Waterloo Art Association, Jan's Art Gallery in West Des Moines, Russel Art Gallery in Cedar Falls, Mississippi Corridor Exhibit in Davenport, KWWL Television Exhibit in Waterloo and at numerous other shows and galleries.

Dutch pianist to give recital

Pianist Robert Moeling, who is on the faculties of the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music and Concordia College in Milwaukee, will present a Guest Recital at Wartburg College Tuesday, March 2.

It begins at 8 p.m. in Orchestra Hall of the Fine Arts Center and is open to the public without charge.

His program includes "Sonata in a-minor, D 537" and "Fantasy in C-major, D 760 ("Wanderer") by Franz Schubert, "Images, book 2" by Claude Debussy and "Polonaise in c#-minor, Op. 26 No. 1," "Nocturne in F#-major, Op. 15 No. 2" and "Scherzo in c#-minor, Op. 39" by Frederic Chopin.

Moeling, who has won international acclaim as a soloist and chamber musician, is the first Dutch musician to be awarded a Fulbright Grant for study in the United States.

Winner of numerous awards, he has performed throughout the United States and Europe and has appeared as a soloist with such orchestras as the Milwaukee Symphony, Denver Chamber Orchestra, Cedar Rapids Symphony and the Rotterdam Conservatory Orchestra.

He is a frequent guest at the Deer Valley and Green Lake Festivals in Wisconsin and has appeared on National Public Radio, WFMT, which carries Chicago's nationally syndicated live concert series, Wisconsin Public Radio and Iowa Public Television.

Moeling records for the Koss Classics and Music and Arts labels, and his recording of Mendelsson's complete works for cello and piano with cellist Terry King of the Wartburg music faculty was given a "10" for performance by "CD-Review."

He earned his Performing Artist Degree from the Rotterdam Conservatory in his native Holland.

Trumpet endorses Onsrud/McClintock

Once again it's time for student body president and vice president elections. In keeping with tradition, the Trumpet has decided to endorse a ticket in the upcoming elections and to encourage all students to vote.

The Trumpet endorses Beth Onsrud and Heather McClintock for student body president and vice president because we feel they are best suited to represent the Wartburg student body.

Their platform includes several notable items including increasing environmental awareness, student input in setting the school calendar and increasing awareness of Student Senate issues. These goals speak for themselves. They are attainable and important areas that are currently not being dealt with.

Onsrud and McClintock have also run a very open, public campaign. They have taken the time and effort to make their platform and faces known. Signs for their campaign abound on campus and copies of their platform are readily available. It is refreshing to know they are not taking any votes for granted just because they are known figures.

Finally, the Trumpet encourages all students to vote Tuesday. By doing so you not only exercise a right, you voice an opinion. We encourage you to make your decision wisely.

Editor's note: For brevity's sake, the Trumpet has replaced repetitious material in several of the letters supporting Dr. Merry Belz's with elipses. In the future, the editor reminds all letter writers to keep letters within the 150-200 word limit.

Best leaders for tomorrow

It's All Too Much

Andrew Howie

Every year at this time, the student body is posed with a choice. On Tuesday March 2, all students (seniors can also vote) will be able to vote for student body officers: president, vice president, treasurer and recorder. These students will control the Senate Executive Committee and subsequently control the issues that are addressed by next year's Student Senate.

Though some students may dismiss this election as irrelevant because they believe Student Senate has little power to influence college decisions, consider some of the past and pending issues that have or will directly affect students: condoms on campus, expanded scholarships for upper class students, cable TV in dorm rooms, cheaper meal plans in the cafeteria, security issues, construction of the new residence hall, etc. All of these affect every student through either campus life or their tuition bill. Student Senate is important because the administration and staff recognize it as the group representing all of the students. The administration respects the issues Senate addresses.

The power and influence of Senate goes far beyond what the average student believes. For instance, did you know the Senate has a yearly budget of over $12,000 to be spent any way they see fit? I strongly encourage you to pay close attention to the platforms of especially the presidential/vice-presidential candidates and vote for the appropriate ticket Tuesday.

One ticket far outshines the other. Beth Onsrud, who wants to be student body president, is one of the finest students on campus. Her leadership in a vast array of student activities has allowed her the opportunity to learn about student needs and has given her the knowledge to solve student problems through reliable means.

Onsrud has been on Senate for the past three years and has played a part in almost every committee. The responsibility she has shown through her position on the Senate Executive Committee this year as Academic Ombudsperson demonstrates the qualities necessary to lead Senate into another academic year. Her leadership, concern, and drive to do what is best for the students and this school are not met by her opponent. She is an asset to this school and will strongly benefit the student body as their president.

Heather McClintock is equally qualified to lead the students as vice-president. Her participation in the realm of student life is extensive both in and out of the classroom. She demonstrates the foresight and vision needed to lead the student government in the future. This foresight is based on the experience she has developed in her activities and time on Senate. Her partnership with Beth creates a ticket that represents all of the students.

I urge every student to join me in voting for Beth Onsrud and Heather McClintock for student body president and vice-president. The fate of our student government is in your hands.

Racial incident rocks campus

I am very saddened and angered to report to the Wartburg campus community that sometime in the early morning hours on Thursday, Feb. 25, a racial slur, "niggers live here," was sprayed on the snow in front of Rochelle and Jerome Rowan's home. This racial epithet was in large blue letters and was observed early in the morning by several passersby on their way to work. The Campus Security was contacted and the Security staff removed the lettering from the snow and notified college officials.

The Waverly Police also were notified of this incident. No similar incidents have been reported in the Waverly community. The perpetrator(s) are unknown, and we do not know whether the perpetrator(s) are members of the Wartburg College community or from the local Waverly community.

This blatant and overt incident is a reminder that much work remains to be done to remove the vestige of racism that plagues society and is in our local community. College communities are not immune and racism in both overt and covert forms can occur at any time.

I know you join with me and others in the administration in expressing our support and deep concern to the Rowans and to members of the African American community.

Vice President for Student Life and Dean of Students

Wrestling lacks adequate coverage

The sports staff of the Trumpet does a fine job covering the men's and women's basketball events. These articles always contain excellent quotes from coaches and players. A reader really gets the feel of what took place.

However, the Wartburg wrestlers consistently receive little or no recognition for their outstanding accomplishments. This lack of coverage was especially evident in the Feb. 22 issue.

On Friday, Feb. 19, the Wartburg wrestlers won the Iowa Conference title and qualified nine wrestlers for nationals. In addition, they broke the record for points scored at the conference meet. The Trumpet produced a few line summary minus quotes from champion wrestlers or the conference coach of the year, Jim Miller. The content of this article is consistent with the coverage throughout the season.

The wrestlers have won every tournament this season including the Georgia State Duals where Division I schools were present. They are undefeated in dual meets. The junior varsity wrestlers have been completely neglected. The Trumpet made no mention of the JV Conference meet in which the Knights finished on top.

I would like to personally congratulate Jim Miller, his coaching staff, and all the Wartburg wrestlers on their undefeated season and tremendous effort. Good luck in Connecticut!

Poor panel discussion attendance questioned

Tuesday night, Feb. 23, there was an international panel scheduled in Buhr lounge involving several students who planned to speak about their spirituality. Unfortunately, only one student came to listen to the presentation, so the event was cancelled.

This panel was scheduled as a part of Spiritual Emphasis Week, yet where were the members of the SEW committee, members of Campus Ministry Board or any members of faith expression groups? The final blow was that the International Club held their meeting at the same time as the panel was scheduled. Where was their support for the international religions?

I have heard the comment that other religions (besides Lutheran) are not spiritual because they don't believe in the same things. All I can ask is: How do you know? No one took the time to come to the panel where the participants were eager to speak and answer questions about their spiritual beliefs.

If this is truly a liberal arts college, we need to become more open-minded and willing to learn about new ideas. The international panel on spirituality would have been a good opportunity to learn. Hopefully next year we will have an international chapel service which more people would be likely to attend.

Onsrud/McClintock recommended by internat'l student

As an international student I would like to voice my support for the student body president and vice president candidates, Beth Onsrud and Heather McClintock.

I got to know Heather last year as one of my residents. She has a remarkable personality. What struck me was her genuine concern about other people and her attitude was very positive throughout the year. She is a person who can bring people of many different backgrounds together, as she exemplified last year on our floor.

I got to know Beth in a few of my classes. She is an unusually open-minded person who would definitely make a difference as student body president in promoting diversity at Wartburg. Both in class and in Senate, she is one of the leaders and one of the people who takes action.

Beth and Heather make a unique team. Their platform covers crucial issues that minority students are interested in. They make an effort to understand these issues because they want to. They realize that international and other minority students are a part of this campus, too. I strongly support them.

Christi Karydou, '94

Candidates endorsed

I have known Beth Onsrud and Heather McClintock for the last couple of years. They are both very friendly and active in campus activities. The potential is there for Beth and Heather to contribute to Student Senate and to the student body. They are deeply concerned about the issues affecting Wartburg College and would definitely work to bring about positive changes. Their contributions to Student Senate have laid the ground work for strong progress in improving campus life. Wartburg College can only benefit with Beth Onsrud as our student body president and Heather McClintock as our vice president. Therefore, I urge all students to join me in support of Onsrud and McClintock in the election on March 2.

Mathews George, '93

Support for Dr. Belz's tenure appeal

As students of Dr. Merry Belz, it is our obligation to protest the refusal to renew her contract for 1994-95. As a performer she is an asset, and as an instructor, she in indispensable.

The vocal technique she promotes is both practical and healthy. Her students have been awarded positions in well-known opera festivals, they consistently rank in both state and regional competitions and several have been accepted into graduate schools and conservatories. The Wartburg Choir is greatly strengthened by the training she offers voices.

Dr. Belz is consistently cited by students for her genuine concern for both their academic and personal welfare. She has helped to build the confidence of even the shyest students. Her honesty and patience, in and out of classes and lessons, shows a sincere belief in the potential of her students. With Dr. Belz, we need no other advocate for our interests.

In addition to solo recitals, Dr. Belz has performed with the Band, Choir, and Community Symphony. Hundreds of members of the Wartburg Community enjoyed her performance of "Lucia di Lammermoor" last May, and her convocation last fall. She is a stunning musician both in technique and interpretation.

Many students and incoming freshmen cite studying with Dr. Belz as a major reason for attending Wartburg. The circumstance of performing a degree recital without her coaching and instruction would be the equivalent of taking a capstone course with a professor who spoke in a language you did not understand. As students, we trust her as both a professor and a friend. Dr. Belz is a continuing source of both professional and personal advice—a quality by which professors at Wartburg are known.

The loss of such a knowledgeable, dedicated professor and great proponent of students would be a serious detriment to the Music Department and the entire college community.

...Being the only senior in Dr. Belz's studio, and having studied voice with her since my freshman year, I, of all her students, probably know her best. In my lessons, she proves to be an outstanding motivator... She has taught me never to be satisfied with the average in any area of my life, not just my singing. I can think of no better advocate for my interests and my future than Dr. Belz.

...I have received a great deal of practical experience because of my contact with Dr. Belz. With her contacts, she secured for me a role in the Quad-City Mozart Festival's production of "The Magic Flute." As supervisor of the vocal division of the preparatory program, she offers her amazing ear for technique and advice in my own teaching of voice students. She was also an invaluable source of encouragement and instruction during my student teaching term. Her support and understanding of my teaching experiences were insightful and appreciated.

...To me, Dr. Belz has been a constant source of advice, both personal and professional, a trait by which Wartburg professors are widely known. As a senior, I realize that any decisions made about Dr. Belz's position will not affect me. However, in all honesty I must say that were it not for Dr. Merry Belz, I would have been forced to study elsewhere.

Daniel A. Mahraun, '93

...I can speak from experience about Dr. Belz's commitment to her students. During my years at Wartburg, I was continually plagued by scheduling problems, mistakes on my bill, and indecision about my future. Dr. Belz was my adviser and she was always there for me, whether at school or at home, office hours or evenings. She was always available. Not only was she devoted to her own students, but to anyone needing help. I can remember several times that students who were not her advisees going to Dr. Belz for advice, whether it be about scheduling, career choice, or personal problems.

Dr. Belz always had my best interests in mind. Entering the music field as a professional after college was very frightening for me, but Dr. Belz was always there, fielding my questions, giving advice, and offering support. Even after leaving the Wartburg community, I still found myself included in Dr. Belz's Wartburg "family."

Dr. Belz has one outstanding talent—helping young people decide their future. She is truly a shaper of young minds. She helps to find a direction, a purpose, without sacrificing one's dreams. Wartburg is known for it's extraordinary Music Department and music faculty, and the fabulous training given to myself and others is proof of this claim. If an instructor of Dr. Belz's calibre and commitment is allowed to leave, I feel it will make this extraordinary department a little more ordinary.

Dr. Belz is not only a teacher, she is a mentor. She is not only a credit to her field, she is my friend.

Julie A. Holtan, '92

...As a sophomore music therapy/music education major and a voice student of Dr. Belz, I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere concern. Dr. Belz's talent, dedication, and competency are evident in her countless contributions to the Wartburg Community. I believe that Dr. Belz offers me every opportunity to achieve my fullest potential...

By her own example, Dr. Belz makes it clear that as a musician, achieving excellence is a lifelong process. Dr. Belz is always willing to share her talents with the public...

...There is a fine line between being a friend and a teacher. Dr. Belz has established a happy medium in that she maintains a professional attitude but isn't afraid to let me know that she cares. I have no doubt that if I approached Dr. Belz with a confidential matter, it would remain just that—confidential. I consider Dr. Belz a great source of advice, both personal and professional. This type of teacher-student relationship builds mutual respect that I hope to develop with my own students.

It is Dr. Belz's goal to "teach herself out of a job." More specifically, it is her intent to help us reach a point where she is no longer needed as a teacher. She urges us to become independent, critically thinking musicians. Dr. Belz is teaching me how to teach myself. What more could I ask for from a liberal arts college like Wartburg?

Dana Frank, '95

...I have become a better singer because of what Dr. Belz has taught me and I feel that consistency in teachers throughout my college career is very important.

In her short time here, Dr. Belz has started the Opera Workshop. Being part of the performance degree program, the opportunity to perform on stage is very important to me. Had it not been for Opera Workshop, I would never have had this opportunity.

In her absence, the music department would be weakened dramatically. Dr. Belz rightly deserves to have her contract renewed and have the opportunity to continue to enhance the education of present and future music students.

Mike Van Laningham, '96

...It is because of Dr. Belz that I came and have stayed at Wartburg. As an in incoming freshmen, her studio was highly recommended to me. I have found that she is a very honest, forthright, and patient person. She believes in her students and herself. She also possesses the ability to encourage and challenge her students at the same time. I have observed that her demeanor is nothing less than professional and ethical. Her absence in the Music Department at Wartburg would be a grave loss.

Elizabeth L. Leas, '96

...Financially it has been a struggle for me to stay at Wartburg. My parents have wanted me to transfer to a less expensive school. Because of what Dr. Belz has done for me I am still here. I refuse to leave such a great coach.

I can't explain on paper everything Dr. Belz has done for me. I call home and talk to my parents about my vocal progress and how fortunate I am to have Dr. Belz as a voice coach...

In the two years I have been here, Dr. Belz has made a very large impact on me. I cringe to think that she won't be sitting in the audience of my senior recital,as a vocal coach who has taught me everything I know to this point about my voice. I have to ask myself, if I feel this way, don't others feel this way too? Also, if she doesn't get renewed, will I be forced to pursue my education elsewhere as my main purpose for being at Wartburg College will no longer be here? I am asking you to please reconsider.

Tina Cox, '95

...I have worked accompanying vocal lessons in the studio of Dr. Belz for approximately four years. I have also served as an accompanist in the Opera Workshop program for over two years, both of which were under her direction. In these experiences Dr. Belz has successfully provided an atmosphere of learning not only for the vocal students but for the accompanist as well.

I have appreciated the way in which I have been treated as not "just a pianist" but as a fine musician. She stresses the teamwork between pianist and vocalist. This most certainly enhances the music created within this setting. She has involved me in the private vocal lessons to teach me various aspects of the vocal process. I feel this will be an invaluable asset as I seek future accompanying positions.

...Thank you so much for your time given in this matter. I would urge your reconsideration of Dr. Belz's contract renewal.

Sherry R. Tuls, '93

...As a second year student of Dr. Belz, I can honestly say that she has had more positive influence on me than any other teacher....

Dr. Belz always has time for her students. She is always readily available to her students as a teacher, adviser and mentor. She is there for her students just as she has always been there for me.

Though Dr. Belz maintains a close contact with her students, every manner in which she conducts herself is of the strictest professional quality and demeanor. Dr. Belz exhibits the qualities that are essential to the long-standing tradition of excellence in education at Wartburg College.

Despite all this, Dr. Merry Belz was not given a fair chance. In an academic institution founded on diplomacy, justice and equality, I do not see how the faculty review committee could overlook such positive attributes. I hope and pray that the administration will examine their motives in this decision and uphold the high standards we have all come to expect .

Blair B. Buffington, '95

...Dr. Belz has made a tremendous impact on my life on the one term that I have worked with her. I am a performance major and the technique she teaches will assist me in pursuing a career on stage...

I consider Dr. Belz the best teacher and coach that I have ever had. I trust in her methods and her ideas. I can honestly say that all of her students feel the same way. Dr. Belz is literally shaping our voices. We can't afford to lose her as our teacher.

Bret Dillon, '96

...In my two years of private voice lessons with Dr. Belz, I have seen how genuinely concerned she is for her students' well-being and future. She is not above rearranging her schedule to accommodate the various needs of individual students. Often times, she is found giving make-up lessons in the evening or on the weekends.

Dr. Belz is a professor who has encouraged me to have confidence in myself. She makes it very clear that everyone makes mistakes. She is willing to admit that she makes mistakes. No matter what concept we are trying to learn, Dr. Belz has at least twenty different analogies or personal experiences that I can relate to in order to better understand.

...Dr. Belz is a valuable resource to the Wartburg Community. As President Vogel said in the Ash Wednesday service, we need to utilize all possible resources to "fulfill our mission." It seems contradictory to say this and at the same time contemplate dismissing such a valuable resource.

Robin L. Heckens, '95

...I first met Dr. Belz when I came to Meistersinger All-State Camp and took a master class that she taught. From that class experience, and a discussion with her, I realized that I wanted to learn from her and decided on Wartburg.

That is a decision that at one time I regretted. At the beginning of this academic year, I realized that I made the wrong choice of major. Dr. Belz was very supportive and listened, really listened, to me. Through that and subsequent discussions, I found that someone at Wartburg did care about me and was actually looking after my best interests. Dr. Belz, and her supportive nature, remains to be a major reason for my being at Wartburg.

Knights cruise to conference title

BY JAMES D. MILLER

The Wartburg men's basketball team picked up three wins last week to make them conference champions. Along with having this title, the Knights will automatically advance to the national tournament.

The Knights beat Buena Vista Tuesday 113-87 and got their other two wins against Simpson and Upper Iowa with scores of 64-59 and 87-57 respectively.

Wartburg shot 59 percent from the field at Buena Vista to take a comfortable 52-38 halftime lead and nearly doubled that in the second half.

Matt Leary led all scorers with 26 points. Rob Kain led all rebounders with 13 and also put in 19 points. Mark Franzen added 18 points while Doug Hall nailed 11.

Friday, the Knights took on Simpson who led at the half by 14. But Wartburg owned the second half as the Knights tied it up after a 25-9 scoring spree with 6:19 to go.

The game was then decided by free throws as Wartburg made 4-6 to seal the win.

"They shot an unbelievable 71 percent in the first half," Leary said. "We picked our defense up in the second half because we knew that they couldn't keep that up."

Leary was high scorer with 25 points and Brain Farrell put in 13. Jeff Isaacson had 12 points and Kain pulled down 11 rebounds.

Wartburg took control from the onset Saturday and beat Upper Iowa by 30 making the Knights conference champions. Leary was on fire again contributing 25 points, making his total for the week 76 points.

Kain crashed the boards tough again pulling down 13 rebounds, making his week total at 37 rebounds. Farrell was good for 18 points and Kain put in 16.

The Knights will take on St. Johns (MN) Thursday in the first round of the national tournament. The game time is set for 7:30 at St. Johns.

Dr. Richard Walker: new hall of fame inductee

The late Dr. Richard Walker, who coached Wartburg College's wrestling team for 22 years until his untimely death in an automobile accident in the fall of 1990, will be inducted into the NCAA Division III National Wrestling Coaches Association Hall of Fame Thursday, March 4.

He is one of three coaches and three wrestlers to be selected for the Hall of Fame this year.

The other coaches are Baron Bremner, now a vice president at Cornell College in Mt. Vernon and a former coach at both Cornell and Coe, and Gomer Davies, who coached for 35 years at Swarthmore College. Wrestlers are two-time national champions Jeff Bousloug of Luther, Mark Hawald of John Carroll, and Dr. Ron Winnie of State University of New York-Brockport.

The induction ceremony takes place during a banquet at the Groton Motor Inn in Groton, CN. The banquet is in conjunction with the national NCAA Division III wrestling tournament at the U.S. Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., March 5-6.

During his 22 years at Wartburg, Walker posted a dual meet record of 180-93-4, including one streak of 52 consecutive wins. He won four Iowa Conference team championships and saw 41 wrestlers crowned as Iowa Conference individual champions. He was named IIAC Coach of the Year in 1974, 1981 and 1987, and he coached 16 Division III All-Americans, including one national champion.

He served as chair of the NCAA Division III Wrestling Sports Committee and was a member of the NCAA Wrestling Rules Committee.

He also taught in and was chair of the college's physical education department and served for a period of time as an assistant in football.

Prior to coming to Wartburg, he taught and coached at his alma mater, Grinnell, and he was an assistant for six years at West Waterloo High School in football, wrestling and track.

He earned his M.S. degree from South Dakota State and his doctorate at Northern Colorado.

Farrell, Roberts named to GTE Academic All-District

Wartburg guard Brian Farrell and center Kathy Roberts have been named to the second GTE Academic All-District men's and women's basketball teams for District IV.

Farrell was the only Iowa Conference player selected to either the first or second team, while Roberts is joined by Emilie Hanson of Central on the second team and Tally Hempy of Luther on the first team.

Farrell carries a cumulative grade point average of 3.46 and is a biology major. Roberts has a GPA of 3.22 in fitness management.

A Kodak All-American last year, Roberts is Wartburg's all-time leading scorer in women's basketball with more than 2,000 points. This season, she paces the 17-3 Knights with a 20.1 scoring average. She also leads in rebounding with a 7.4 average and is first in assists with 75, blocked shots with nine and steals with 45.

Farrell is the third-leading scorer on the 13-7 men's team with an 11.3 average. He leads in both assists with 87 and steals with 36. He also averages 4.9 rebounds per game.

Members of the first team now advance to the national Academic All-American ballot.

District 7 includes Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Montana, Colorado, Wyoming and the Canadian provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Olson, Carney, Dubec, Arends qualify for indoor nationals

BY CHARLES TRUNCK

Wartburg's women's track team qualified three individuals for nationals and took first place this weekend at the Iowa Small College Championships.

Robin Olson, Bridget Carney, and Esther Dubec all placed in the 1500 m run to earn them spots in national competition.

Gary Arends also qualified for nationals in men's competition with a jump of 6'9 in the high jump. The men placed third in overall competition with 15 teams attending.

The women had 136 points, out scoring second place Luther by 59 points. "The women dominated the meet and had an outstanding performance," Coach Steve Johnson said.

Northwestern finished first in men's competition with 82 points. Wartburg had a total of 71 points closely following second-place Simpson with 72.

"The overall meet was the best I have been involved with at Wartburg," Johnson said. "It was tough competition and we didn't have any breakdowns."

Three indoor Wartburg records were set by the women. Angie Cornelius set the 65 m hurdles record with a time of 9.1 seconds.

The 4 x 200 relay team (Michelle Gade, Heather Hargrave, Billie Jo Steffenson, Denise McMillan) and the 4 x 800 team (Jolene Heise, Sally Balvin, Beth Holst, Olson) both set records with times of 1:50.69 and 9:46.61. The 4 x 800 team also set the track and meet records.

The men produced two individual champions consisting of Josh Watters with a time of 1:57.00 in the 800 m and Arends in the high jump.

Derek Oden placed second in both the 1000 m and the1500 m run with times of 2:36 and 4:04.

In the triple jump the Knights placed three individuals. Dan Hugo placed third jumping 42'2, J.J. Rochford placed fourth jumping 41'10, and Troy Buchholz placed fifth jumping 41'3. Rochford and Buchholz also placed fourth and sixth in the long jump, with jumps of 21'11 and 21'6.

The 4 x 800 relay team, (Andy Broka, Watters, Jason MacTaggert, Matt Hansen) composed of four freshman, placed second with a time of 8:11.04.

Also contributing to the Knight's third place finish were; Mike Luebbers throwing 45'11 in the shotput, earning him third place and MacTaggert placing fourth in the 100 m, with a time of 2:37.02.

Lea Lucas and Dubec both were individual champions in the women's competition. Lucas ran the 600 m in 1:39.04 and Dubec ran the 1000 m in 3:05.

Carny and Balvin also placed third and fifth in 1000 m.

In the 5000 m the women placed 3 individuals. Shannon Timmins placed second with a time of 18:31, Laura Max placed third with a time of 18:45, and Laura Garton placed fourth with a time of 18:47.

The 4 x 400 relay team (Hargrave, Anne Oltmann, McMillin, Lucas) finished second overall with a time of 4:14.03

Hargrave and Oltmann also finished second and third in 400 m.

In the 800 m, Holst and Heise placed third and fourth.

Cornelius and Michelle Djuren rounded off the competition by placing fourth in each of their events. Cornelius ran the 50 m dash in 7.7 seconds and Djuren jumped 5'2 in the high jump.

The women's and men's teams will compete in the Florida over break.

National qualifiers will head to Ames to participate in an Iowa State Invitational and then the National Indoor Champions over break.

Lady Knights headed for nationals again

Loss to Simpson hurts women's conference title bid

BY TIM SEEGER

The Lady Knights had a chance to help Wartburg make history last weekend. Had the women won both of their home weekend games, they would have finished tied for first in the Iowa Conference.

The men's team and the wrestling team both finished first in the conference, so that would have been the first time ever that all three Wartburg winter sports teams finished first in their respective sports.

Nevertheless, the women still finished off a successful regular season with wins in two of their three games this week.

They finish tied for second place with Luther in the Iowa Conference, and they have been invited to the NCAA Division III tournament.

Coach Monica Severson said Wartburg is tentatively scheduled to play at Washington University in St. Louis Saturday, but the final seedings still must be approved by the national committee.

Wartburg defeated Buena Vista Tuesday 78-59. Friday Simpson upset Wartburg 75-69, but Wartburg bounced back against Upper Iowa Saturday with a 99-63 victory.

The Knights shot 50 percent from the field in the first half against Buena Vista en route to a 37-22 halftime lead.

Cheryl Zarn and Kathy Roberts led the Knights with 15 points apiece, and Angie Toale added 13.

Friday night, Simpson took control of the game in the first half to take an early 41-22 lead.

In the first half, Simpson shot 68 percent to Wartburg's 30 percent, they outrebounded Wartburg 18-11 and committed five fewer turnovers.

"Simpson had lost several games in a row," Severson said. "So they really didn't have a lot to lose."

The key to their victory was shutting down Roberts. Simpson's Siebert's menacing defense held Roberts to only three shots and three first half points.

No one else was able to pick up the scoring slack for the Knights.

The second half was a complete turnaround, but Wartburg was not able to overcome the 19-point deficit as Simpson shot 65 percent from the field in the second half.

Roberts led all scorers with 14, nine of which came in the last five minutes. Zarn and Melanie Miller added nine.

Saturday night the Knights took out their frustrations against Upper Iowa with their 99-63 victory.

The women were led by Roberts with 28 points. Also in double figures were Michelle Grow with 14, Carrie Petersen with 12, Zarn with 11 and Jodie Schult with 11.

In case you missed it...

Goofy highlights from Wartburg's basketball season

In case you missed it, here are just a few of the goofy things that happened during this year's Wartburg basketball regular season:

1. Did you see the game where a fan took center stage during half-time warm-ups?

It happened as Wartburg's men's team played Northwestern (MN) on Dec. 11. Northwestern was shooting around during halftime, and the Knights had not yet taken the floor. A fan called for the ball from a Northwestern player. He shot a three-pointer but missed.

Then after some encouragement from his friends, he went out on the court again and called for the ball.

He got the entire Northwestern team to clear a lane for him so he could go for a dunk. The fan got up high enough but he just couldn't put it down.

The Fan's Perspective

Tim Seeger

So he called for the ball one final time and finally made the dunk.

2. Did you see the Central women's coach who totally lost his cool?

When Central's women lost to Wartburg Feb. 12, Central's coach was actually sitting on the floor for a while, and he practically ran out to the free throw line to call a time out.

He also ran to the scorer's table and started pounding on the table, because the shot clock had inadvertently been reset.

3. Did you see the game where Michelle Grow shot at the wrong basket?

As the seconds were winding down in Wartburg's victory against Luther (Jan. 16), Grow received a pass near Luther's basket, turned around and almost scored two points for Luther.

Even if she had made the shot, the two points would not have affected the outcome, but the shot caused a bit of embarrassment for Grow and quite a few laughs for her teammates and fans.

Who knew Wartburg was like this?

This is officially the last picture series of Wartburg's Hidden Secrets.

Through the series, we hope the Trumpet presented students with different scenes of Wartburg they have yet to come across. Though some of the secrets aren't so hidden, they all give Wartburg its own identity, which makes it such a great community.

We encourage students to take a good look around campus and experience first-hand all the wonderful, small places that make up our school.

THE GAUNTLET—This lounge is located on the ground floor of Grossmann Hall. Unless things have changed in the last two years, this lounge sees very little action.

LOOKS A LOT DIFFERENT THAN IT USED TO—This used to be the top floor in the old music building, but now houses faculty offices in the Fine Arts Center.

THE JOUSTING POST—This room is located by the security office and is sometimes used as a classroom. Usually it serves as a meeting room for campus organizations.

YES, THEY ARE TYPEWRITERS—These typewriters are located on the third floor of Engelbrecht Library. Students are allowed to use them during library hours.

THE LONELY ORGAN—This is one of three practice rooms on the third floor of the Fine Arts Center. Each room holds on e of these organs.
